TOKYO, Japan (August 7, 2024) – Charitable Trust “Suntory Fund for Bird Conservation,” established by Suntory Holdings, will start accepting applications for the FY2025 grant programs from September 1st. A total of approximately 40 million Japanese yen will be granted across three categories “Bird Conservation Group’s Activities Grant,” “Regional Bird-watching Activities Grant,” and “Waterfront Large Bird Conservation”.

Recognizing that wild birds are barometers of the environment, Suntory started its bird conservation activities in 1973, celebrating 50 years of continuous efforts last year. The company established the “Suntory Fund for Bird Conservation” in 1989, later registered as a Charitable Trust in 1990, to promote environmental conservation through providing grants to various bird conservation activities. To date, the Fund has granted a total of over 700 million Japanese yen to a total of 517 organizations.

In 2021, the Fund launched a Global Application Scheme under the “Bird Conservation Group’s Activities Grant” category to accept applications from bird conservation organizations* based outside of Japan and have provided grants to such organizations.

The fund aims to continue supporting various bird conservation activities around the world and engage in bird protection activities.

*Applications from overseas organizations must be submitted through a Japanese organization.

〈About Suntory's bird conservation activities〉

In 1973, Suntory started the "Save the Birds! Campaign" on newspaper advertisement with a slogan "Today Birds, Tomorrow Humans," advocating the tragedies that happen to birds today, will also happen to humans tomorrow. On the same year, the company also established a wild bird sanctuary in Suntory Hakushu Distillery in Japan where it conducts various activities such as wild bird research and observation as well as nest box hanging. In order to further its effort in bird conservation activities, the company established the "Suntory Fund for Bird Conservation" in 1989.

Suntory conducts forest management in 26 locations near its production sites across Japan called Suntory Natural Water Sanctuaries, where experts constantly conduct wild bird research. Data retrieved from this research is utilized as one of the guidelines to manage the forests and conserve the environment in these sanctuaries. In the Suntory Natural Water Sanctuaries, the company also nurtures young Raptores such as eagles and hawks which top in the ecosystem pyramid under the "Eagle/Hawk Nurturing Support Program" by creating a rich and well-balanced natural environment suited for nesting, feeding and child-rearing.
